Unique pivoting block accommodates proper compression of various connector types.

Low compression force handles with comfortable polymer grips.

Center conductor gauge on tool body designed to ensure proper preparation lengths.

Tool compression lengths are factory fixed and non-adjustable preventing improper adjustments in the field.

Ripley's "CT Series" line of compression tools are designed with a pivoting compression block to accommodate various 59/6 and 7/11 connectors. Refer to the tables below for applicable connectors for each tool.
